

RFID Access Control Card Features:

Free sample design 125khz rfid chip access control card plastic hotel door key card

Contactless cards, also called radio frequency cards, consist of a chip and antenna composed of sensors, packaged in standard PVC cards, the chip and antenna are fully enclosed without any exposed parts. Radio waves transmit information between the contactless smart card and the card reader to complete read and write operations. Contactless smart cards have similar applications like contact smart cards but the transactions in between card and reader are very fast and convenient.
